Funds to combat domestic violence?

Supers OK Garber's quest for grant monies for training and additional deputies

BY ED LEPOMA
Staff Writer

The Hancock County Sheriff's Department is going after state and federal funds in efforts to stem the rise in domestic violence incidents.

At Monday's meeting, the Board of Supervisors authorized Sheriff Steve Garber to hire Gail Watts as a grant writer to file applications for the funds.

Watts will be paid $18 an hour, and estimates each application will take about 25 hours to prepare.

Garber said, if the county is successful, the funds would be used to hire an additional deputy who will be assigned and trained to handle domestic violence cases. Some funds will also be used to train road deputies in the proper handling of domestic violence cases, he said.

Bay Council eyes annexation plans

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Staff Writer

Bay St. Louis city officials plan to huddle behind closed doors soon on the subject of a potential "drastic" annexation attempt.

In a meeting Tuesday, City Council members and Mayor Eddie Favre the discussion should be in "executive session" not open to the public. The session is tentatively set for council's next workshop, March 18.

Wal-Mart may soon storm the Pass Christian beachfront

BY ED LEPOMA
Staff Writer

Ending months of speculation, Pass Christian city officials learned Tuesday a giant Wal-Mart might be in the city's future.

Rumors had circulated since last December that a realtor representing Arkansas-based Wal-Mart had made several trips to town and was assembling a parcel of mostly vacant and wooded land on the easternmost fringe of the city.

Tuesday night, during a meeting of the mayor and Board of Aldermen, Tommy Vervaeke was present to announce, "The cat has come out of the bag."

Before the presentation, Mayor Billy McDonald revealed he assembled a group last week to meet with Vervaeke to talk about Wal-Mart's plans. Besides the mayor, the group included city attorney Malcolm Jones, code enforcement officer Peggy Johnson, Planning Commission Chairman Dayton Robinson, and engineering consultant John Campton.

Vervaeke said his real estate firm, through security and boarded Balance Airlines. After a brief "flight" and briefing by flight attendants, the students departed the plane and made their way "around the world."

Each child carried a bag to the different countries of Japan, Vietnam, England, France, Italy, Mexico, Kenya, Egypt, and even the United States - where they visited New York City. Passports were checked as each country was visited and visitors received their choice of souvenirs to take home.

Project director Mary Edelen worked in conjunction with Mary Bowser and Principal Lettie Burger to organize the festival.

"But we couldn't have done this without the help from many others, both in and out of the school and business sponsors in the community," Edelen said.

Students who participated in the fair dressed in the costumes of the countries they were representing, and manned the booths at each display. Younger students were paired with older students to help them on their trips to various countries.

Activities included mask-making in Kenya; hieroglyphic lessons in Egypt; paper-folding lessons in Japan; and quilt making in the U.S. In New York, students could cross the Brooklyn Bridge; in France they could visit the Louvre; and in Vietnam, a model of a typical grass and bamboo house was on display.

"Travel brochures" encouraged students to keep an open mind, learn about and respect other cultures, learn another language, take pride in their own heritage, and reach out and get to know people who

Wal-Mart

Carlton and Associates, based in Baton Rouge, has assembled a 26-acre parcel of land fronting the beach on U.S. Hwy. 90 between Hayden Avenue and Holiday Drive.

The main parcel of land, wooded and vacant since Hurricane Camille in 1969, was once the site of the Moonlight Drive-In Theatre. The major portion of the property is already zoned C-3 for Commercial Development. It includes the Beachcomber Lounge, but the area east of the lounge is zoned R-2-Residential.

Vervaeke said Wal-Mart plans to go before the city's Zoning Board of Adjustment to get that area zoned for commercial use. Vervaeke said Wal-Mart also plans to acquire an additional 16 acres north of the main property in order to provide a wooded buffer from the neighborhood. "It would not be developed," he said.

Vervaeke said owners of a veterinarian office that faces the beach and of the abandoned Stuffed Shirt factory would not agree to sell their property.

Vervaeke said an architect is designing final plans for the building "which would have the least impact on trees and neighbors." He said no wetlands are involved.

He said initial plans are the Pass Christian store would not be a superstore, but would be a giant store containing about 188,000-square feet. He said it would be smaller than the Super Wal-Mart off Interstate 110 in D'Iberville, but about the size of the Wal-Mart in Ocean Springs.

Vervaeke said the store would include a pharmacy, a grocery store, a tire and lube shop and a garden center. He said it would be open 24 hours a day, seven days a week, but the auto shop would not be open at night.

He said large trucks coming into Wal-Mart would not use Second Street or Holiday Drive.

McDonald told Vervaeke Pass Christian citizens "take a lot of pride in aesthetics," and he hoped Wal-Mart would design a building "that is tastefully done."

Vervaeke said he expected a preliminary design of the building to be completed in about two weeks.

He said he and Wal-Mart officials plan to meet with citizens all during the permitting process to allay their fears about traffic congestion, aesthetics or on other issues.

The mayor and city aldermen have heard from citizens for and against the Wal-Mart since the news first circulated. And, some citizens against the project have written letters to the local newspapers.

McDonald has asked citizens to remain calm until all the details are known. Supporters are hopeful the Wal-Mart location is far enough out that it does not disturb the ambience of the historic Scenic Drive and downtown area, where small shops co-exist with palatial homes.

BayArts 2002 Artists' Open Studio

SPECIAL TO THE ECHO

BayArts 2002 Artists' Open Studio Tour and Gallery Exhibits, begins today, with nine four-day art workshops being taught throughout the city by 10 Bay St. Louis art educators.

The workshops include watercolors, Sory Yager and Kathe Calhoun; mixed-media, Kat Fitzpatrick; drawing, Robin Cole; print-making, Gwen Impson; making papers and simple books, Vicki Niolet; Bay clay potter Talle Johnson; mosaics, Elizabeth Veglia; hand carving in stone, Anthony Henderson; and fine art photography with Sandra Russell Clark.

Tours kick off Saturday, in this historic old town area of the city.

Tour maps of the 14 artists studios, five special exhibits, and ten galleries open to the public will be available beginning at 10 a.m. at the Hancock County Library Headquarters for a $2 donation.

The schedule of events for the day includes:

Tour Headquarters opens, 10 a.m. - Visitors will see their first public art at the library, Renaissance of a Community, the mosaic mural created by BayArts faculty member Elizabeth Veglia and hundreds of community members.

The library special exhibits of the work of late African-American artists, sculptor Richmond Barthé and woodcarver Ellsworth Collins (whose work may also be seen at St. Rose) and other artists are encouraged.

Tour maps, light refreshments and comfort stations will be available.

Old Town galleries open, 10 a.m. until early evening.

Special presentation: Auseklis Ozols, master muralist "Christ in the Oak," St. Rose de Lima Catholic Church, 301 S.

THE DEPOT SHOW—as part of Saturday's BayArts Open Studio Tours, there will be an art exhibit at the Historic Bay St. Louis Depot featuring (left to right) printmaker Gwen Impson, illustrator Victoria Tackett, potter Talle Johnson, painter Kat Fitzpatrick, and multi-media artist Elizabeth Schaefer.

Necaise Ave., 11 a.m. - noon. Church will remain open to the public until 3 p.m.

Lunch in Old Town or the Depot District - all area restaurants will be focusing on BayArts visitors with outstanding fare for the day.

Artists Open Studio Tour, 1 p.m. - 5 p.m. - Studios are concentrated in the area south of Highway 90 to Washington St. and the west by St. Francis St.

Studios will be identified with signs and balloons. The tour follows no particular route.

Studio's close at 5 p.m., but galleries will remain open until the early evening.

"These 14 studios were selected because they exhibited the enormous diversity of the Bay St. Louis artists colony, from large-scale sculpture to pottery miniatures. "Visual artists make up two-thirds of our artistic community, and each year we will continue to focus on variety, quality and studio interest," said Mike Cuevas, event organizer and director of cultural affairs for the city.

For further tour information, call Cuevas, 228.463.7120 or by e-mail, depot@goldinc.com.

The "Delirium Emporium Gallery" will reopen to exhibit new works by Kevin Webster during BayArts 2002. Better known as Flying Cups & Saucers Coffee Bar, the gallery will be open Thursday and Friday from 6 p.m. until 9 p.m. with an opening reception on Friday and Saturday, March 9 from 1 p.m. until 9 p.m. The new works will feature paintings and sculptures of frogs, faces, monsters, brains, and the ubiquitous wienie dogs. The Delirium Emporium Gallery is located at 126 Blalze Ave., across from the Train Depot, next to Benigno's.

Annexation -- Bay council

In addition to the general talk Tuesday over possible expansion of city limits, Favre spoke at some length about a new emphasis on getting state and federal grants into the city coffers. "We want to apply for anything we can possibly apply for," the mayor said.

And, he kicked off the annexation discussion by saying, "It's something we need to talk about." Favre said if the city decides to pursue annexation on any significant scale, it will need to retain annexation attorneys to help.

The city's last major annexation came in the late 1980's with the addition of hundreds of acres in the Cedar Point area. Much of that territory now has been developed by Casino Magic.

Since then, city officials have briefly discussed - and then rejected - relatively minor expansions of the city's limits.

Favre repeated his concerns Tuesday about annexing residential properties. With a tax levy of only five mills (two dedicated to parks and three for the library), residential properties won't generate enough in taxes to cover expansion of city water and sewer lines, drainage, and police and fire services, officials say.

"The only way it will be feasible is if there's a substantial retail base," Favre said.

Even if annexing areas that have existing water and sewer services, the city has to consider the impact that expansion would have on the city's fire insurance rating, the mayor said. He said he has had preliminary discussions with Fire Chief Robert Gavagnie about the potential need to add fire trucks and personnel, and a supplemental fire station, in the event of annexation.

He agreed with concerns raised by Ward 1 council member Doug Seal, who said some area cities are facing significant deficits as they struggle to provide services to newly annexed areas. "Now...it's a tough time to have to go out and spend money without an immediate return," Seal said.

Favre agreed, but said there are "all kinds of possibilities" under consideration. He promised to have maps prepared for council's study in two weeks. "There are some possibilities, but I'm talking real drastic possibilities," the mayor said. If the city were to take in only a small area, there could be few negative effects, Favre said. "But at the same time, we may want to do a whole lot more."

Favre also launched a discussion of dramatically expanding grant-hunting efforts by Bay St. Louis. The mayor touched on state budgetary cutbacks, including a $300,000 cut for area schools, and various proposals to redirect sales tax revenues and tourism tax revenues. "They've got some wacky ideas up there," Favre said of the Legislature, where 17 differing bills are pending that effect state sales taxes. Some of the bills, he added, "could have a very negative effect on us."

For instance, cities get an 18.5 percent rebate on state sales tax revenues raised inside municipalities, he said. Some legislators want to cut that rate and keep the change. Meanwhile, counties are pushing to get a bite of the sales tax money that's raised inside corporate city limits, he said.

Favre noted that the city is operating on a tight budget already, and said the city needs to be more aggressive than it has been in seeking grant funding.

For years, planners with Gulf Regional Planning Commission have spearheaded most of the city's grant efforts. One proposal from GRPC would have the city apply for some $350,000 in a home repair program.

But officials seemed in accord Tuesday that grant-writing efforts have fallen short of Bay St. Louis' needs. Favre referred to the "turmoil" currently surrounding the staff at GRPC, and he said that all too often the grants that have been sought have been rejected.

Favre is talking about seeking grant funds to build sidewalks, upgrade drainage and parks, in addition to covering some "street work," and "anything we can get the grant to cover. Some we've applied for in the past," said the mayor. "But when we applied, we didn't get a damned thing."

Council agreed to set a public hearing on the home repair grant application - and to hold a series of hearings on any other grants Favre recommends pursuing.

In other matters, council:

- Rejected a controversial rezoning request to develop dozens of mini storage units on a tract off an unpaved portion of Longfellow Road. A standing room only crowd had objected to the project during the Planning and Zoning Commission consideration of it. Tuesday, former Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett cautioned that a zoning change to commercial status could open the door to a wide range of undesirable developments on the property.

- Approved a site plan for Ronald Artigues' planned development of 112 mini storage units at the corner of Old Spanish Trail and Turner Street. The property already is zoned for commercial development.

- Agreed to a request for police assistance to Biloxi in the event that Spring Break crowds return to that city. Announced plans, however, have the event occurring at Jazzland in New Orleans in April.

- Postponed discussion of a new policy covering employee take-home vehicles. Apparently several versions of the proposed policy have been circulating among employees, as officials gather in put before putting a policy in place.

- One proposal would keep take-home cars out of the hands of employees who live more than 20 miles outside city limits. It would forbid personal use of city cars by employees, and require that those who are assigned take-home vehicles provide for lubrication and oil and filter changes every 5,000 miles.

Fond memories of 'G.I. subdivision'

JACKSON--By law, it was called the "G.I. Subdivision."

About 50 acres of one-time farm land owned by the state in North Jackson were divided into lots in 1948 and sold as home sites at bargain rates to returning World War II veterans. White vets only, as was custom and usage back then.

Those of us vets who subsequently built homes there hated that name "G.I. Subdivision."

Especially wives, who wanted something spiffier to give our subdivision a little more class. Soon, garden club ladies came up with "Northwood" and ceremoniously put up a marker in a triangular green spot at the entrance to the subdivision. Beautified it with shrubs and planted a magnolia tree.

However, a few years later the sign, probably knocked down by a city cleaning crew, disappeared. More or less so did the name Northwood. But a half century later, the magnolia is still alive and well, as is the triangle's landscaping.

That's because a dedicated handful of current neighborhood residents are not only keeping up the landscaping, but doing a lot more: As the neighborhood courageously struggles through racial transition, it is also working to preserve the integrity and security of the area as well as celebrate its World War II heritage.

It's an inspiring story: It has now become an expanded neighborhood, also embracing what we used to know as "Broadmoor," the residential section just north of ours.

The whole community is known as the Greater Broadmoor District, encompassing peripheral businesses as well as the residential area. But first, back to how it all began with the G.I. Subdivision.

Dozens of us in the post-war generation put down our roots, built our first homes, raised our families and lived there for many years before another generation took over.

After WWII, Mississippi couldn't afford to pay a bonus to veterans as many states did. So it came up with this idea of selling off to vets home plots on what then was known as the "old Insane Asylum lands." Years earlier, it was farmed to provide foodstuff for residents of the state's huge insane asylum population.

What was then the State Building Commission had divided the land into 300 lots, most of them about 56 by 150 feet. Sold to vets in a 1948 drawing, the prices ranged from $950 to $1,250. Vets who drew a lot could resell it to another WWII vet within two years. I bought mine in 1949 from a friend who was moving out of Jackson.

Sewer lines and black-topped streets was put in by the state Highway Department. Streets bore

Letters to the Editor

Louisiana thinks Mississippians should be proud of themselves

Dear Editor:
Our nation has been greatly tested over the last four months since the tragedy of September 11, 2001. Americans from all walks of life have stood tall in the face of adversity and have worked together to begin rebuilding what was lost. We have joined the fight with resolute determination to make a difference and to regain our stability. We write this letter to express our sincere thanks to the citizens of Mississippi.

With the support of thousands of people across the South, over $700,000 was raised in just 90 days to fund the construction of the Spirit of Louisiana, a fire truck for the Fire Department of New York. It was delivered as a Christmas present from Louisiana and is now in service on the streets of New York.

Traveling through Mississippi along the road to Washington and New York City, the Spirit of Louisiana was met at our common border with cheers and encouragement from firefighters, emergency personnel, and law enforcement officers as the Mississippi State Highway Patrol escorted us North on 1-59 through your wonderful state. President Bush welcomed us all to the South Lawn of the White House. He recognized our efforts by saying, "It's a story that makes me so proud to be the President of such a great land."

On behalf of the citizens of the state of Louisiana, we would like to thank the people of Mississippi for the hospitable welcome. Your words of encouragement and display of support were unmatched by any other state. When we stopped in Hattiesburg, more than 55 fire, emergency, and law enforcement vehicles had joined us. As one participant stated, "We're all family and you're helping some of our New York family who have suffered a great loss." Your kind support of this campaign was most appreciated. It is our sincerest hope that we can one day respond in kind.

Sincerely,
M.J. "Mike" Foster, Jr.

Domestic violence a problem that keeps on growing

Dear Editor

Thank you, Judge Ricky Adam, for highlighting a huge problem of relationship abuse that affects so many people. And thank you, Sea Coast Echo, for an excellent article on domestic violence. Social workers, police, mental health specialists and Youth Court personnel see the effects of family violence first hand daily. In our country over 2 million children either witness or experience domestic brutality. It tarnishes their entire lives.

The MS Gulf Coast has the Gulf Coast Women's Center to provide help in anger management, counseling, shelter and education. Counselors work in Hancock County without cost to families. Men and women often do not know their options and frequently repeat their behaviors. Most people arrested and appearing in Court "instantly regret their actions" but unfortunately, the instant passes and the blaming and anger resume. It is not unusual that the victim doubts another complaint will stop the abuse.

On March 27, 2002, a conference in Biloxi will bring together judges, attorneys, nurses, social workers, police and others on A Multidisciplinary Approach to Domestic Violence. Call 868-9345 for information.

names (and still do) of such familiar WWII people and places as Normandy, Casablanca, Manila, Naples, Melbourne, Churchill and a few others--Kings Highway, Robin Hood, and Meadowridge--tossed in.

I built my home on Kings Highway in 1950, when most of the lots still looked like pastures or small forests, studded with pin oaks and hickory trees. In the next four years, however, homes--mostly modest, one-story, two-bedroom structures, each reflecting the individual taste or means of the proud new homeowner, arose on practically every parcel of land.

Here is where dozens of us of the young, post-war generation--salesmen, government workers, budding professionals, newly minted lawyers and doctors, put down our roots, built our first homes, raised our families, and for a number of years wove a unique network of American society, despite our differing views about religion or politics.

As any G.I. wife would attest, it was a great place to raise children, and there were many. One block once claimed to have 37 children. Youngsters played ball in each other's yard, flowed in and out of each other's house as though part of the family.

When our Irish Setter, "Rusty," was hit by a car and killed, kids all over the neighborhood grieved his death. An obit for Rusty even appeared in the Northside Reporter.

After living for 45 years in the house I had built, a change in my physical mobility and the need for less yard made it necessary to find a more compact place, so we sold 4766 Kings Highway, thankfully, to Dr. Margaret Drake, who appreciated the early ranch-style design, its hardwood floors and the Minnesota limestone chimney (still no cracks after 50 years).

So, we of the WWII generation yielded the old neighborhood to a new generation, with lively members such as Jean Coppenbarger and Tricia Raymond who are mobilizing the human resources--both black and white--along with business resources of a broad district they have declared, bounded by North State Street, East Northside Drive, I-55 North and Beasley Road.

Tricia Raymond, a former New Orleanian with strong neighborhood instincts, is something of a human dynamo handling the "vision thing" as the elder George Bush used to say. With Raymond staffing a day-to-day office, the Greater Broadmoor District is pushing residents to build community pride by spruc-

HNC at library

Second graders from Hancock North Central Elementary School visited the Kiln Public Library recently to attend a story time and tour of the library. ing up and maintaining their homes (about 20 percent are owned by rental landlords) and take part in making the area safer and more secure.

In the mid-1990s, the area had undergone an outbreak of crime from young hoodlums who tried to terrorize inhabitants. But now residents, black and white alike, have mounted a united front to keep criminal elements out. Resident Earl Coleman, an African-American who works at the University of Mississippi Medical School, is leading the security effort.

"We don't pretend there are no problems, but we have a wonderful spirit of neighborliness," says Coppenbarger. "Our main problem is not one of race, it's more of old moving out and young moving in. But there are such wonderful instances as when black neighbors organized to bring food to an elderly white lady who was waiting to move into a nursing home."

Tricia Raymond is keen to have a museum located in the area to commemorate the area's strong ties to World War II. For the past several years, she and Coppenbarger have rounded up for Veteran's Day ceremonies, all vets of either WWII or Korean Conflict vintage who once lived in the neighborhood.

Meantime, an immediate goal of the Broadmoor District is to place a memorial marker in the neighborhood to signify it as a historic neighborhood worthy of preservation. No marker, however, could begin to tell the most vital social story of Broadmoor today: A hopeful sign that a biracial neighborhood can live together peacefully.

Another's love is like an island in life's ocean - just and calm. A peaceful place shelter from the restless, raging tide. Another's love is like an anchor when the angry waves roll. Anchoring in the storms of life, a stronghold to the soul. Another's love is like a fortress and we seek protection there. When the voices of tribulation seem to drown us in despair. Another's love is like a harbor where our souls can find sweet rest. From the struggle and the tension of life's fast and futile quest. Another's love is like a beacon burning bright with faith and prayer. And through the changing scenes of life we can find a haven there. (by Helen Steiner Rice)

Violence -- sheriff seeks funding

of stories in the Echo which reported the department is handling on the average of one domestic abuse case a day since the year began.

In a story Sunday, Justice Court judges Ricky Adam and Tommy Carver said they were gravely concerned about the escalating incidents of domestic violence coming through their courts. Carver said the sheriff's department investigated 20 cases of domestic violence during the 28 days in February. Both judges have met with the sheriff asking his department to train deputies to take pictures and better document evidence taken at the scene of a domestic violence incident.

The board's first monthly meeting of March followed a light agenda, and the session adjourned before noon.

Board President Rocky Pullman, District 4 Supervisor Steve Seymour and Chancery Court Clerk and County Administrator Tim Kellar were absent, attending a meeting in Washington, D.C.

Vice-President Lisa Cowand presided over the session, which was also attended by District 1 Supervisor Jeep Ladner, District 5 Supervisor Jay Cuevas, and county attorney Ronnie Artigues, Jr.

Former board attorney Gerald Gex also was present. The board voted to retain Gex on a consulting basis to handle cases involving the chancery court and the tax assessor's office.

Gex officially retired Dec. 28 after 38 years of service to the county in various legal capacities. His part-time employment is subject to approval by the state Retirement Board. Gex said retirement rules would limit his part-time income to $200 a month working for both officials. Garber also received authorization to employ Watts at the same hourly rate and for the same 25 hours to write an application for a grant the department is seeking to better train deputies making arrests involving methamphetamine.

He informed supervisors the Sheriff's Department has also received a state Division of Public Safety grant that would allow for a live scan fingerprint identification system to be installed. The equipment and installation will cost $54,722, and the county's share of the cost was $13,681, he said.

Supervisors put off until their March 20 meeting, Garber's request to amend his budget by $53,608 to fund salaries and benefits of the new director and one assistant assigned to the county's newly-formed Narcotics Unit.

They also delayed Garber's request to provide $1,000 annual pay raises to 12 employees in the department. The sheriff's policy is to provide a $1,000 base salary increase to each employee for each three years of service to the county.

Richard Speights, the executive director of the Mississippi Contract

Procurement Center, gained supervisors approval for continued financial support.

The center helps small and minority businesses obtain government contracts, and Speights said Hancock County contributed $2,000 toward its operations last year.

Supervisors will ask the local legislative delegation to sponsor a bill in the current session whereby the county and the Port and Harbor Commission can funnel a total of $5,000 toward the center.

Speights said the center generated about $249 million in 1,500 government contracts for state businesses last year, helping to create or keep about 4,800 jobs.

The non-profit center gets 50 percent of its funding from the Department of Defense, but depends on local governments for additional funding each year.

MCPC clients register their businesses to receive electronic notice of upcoming bids. There is no fee for the service, Speights said.

Jeff Loftus, the county's consultant to the Gulf Regional Planning Commission, gained permission to file application for $350,000 in federal funds to rebuild and rehabilitate a select group of homes in Hancock County.

He asked supervisors to think about an area where there are a number of dilapidated houses because those selected must be in a cluster.

Loftus said he also plans to file for a grant to provide funds to investigate domestic abuse toward the elderly, but the county needs to select a sponsoring agency, such as the Senior Citizens Center or the Waveland-sponsored RSVP program.

Supervisors also approved spending $4,040 to buy holding stalls at the Hancock County Equine Center and Livestock Arena. Sponsors of an upcoming show in April requested the stalls, and the Equine Board recommended the expenditure.

Before adjourning until March 20, supervisors let a contract for $89,000 to Dependable Construction and Mechanical, Inc., of Biloxi to build an additional handicapped-accessible bath house at McLeod Water Park.

Bay considers imminent re-districting

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Staff Writer

Redistricting may be in the near future for Bay St. Louis, as 2000 Census figures show population totals in two of the city's wards significantly different.

Figures given to Bay St. Louis City Council on Tuesday show Ward 4 with almost twice as many residents as adjoining Ward 3.

Council president William "Bill" Taylor said the city would have to submit the figures to the U.S. Justice Department for approval, even if no big shifts in population occurred.

As it stands, the Census showed the city with some 8,200 residents, a tiny increase over the 1990 Census. Ideally, each of the four wards would have around 2,052 residents, officials say.

Ward 4 is the overwhelming-white southwestern portion of the city, with almost 2,600 residents — that's 26.4 percent over the norm. Ward 3, lying almost in the middle of the city limits, is predominately black. It has only 1,400 residents — almost 32 percent less than the norm.

Wards 1 and 2 are overwhelming white, with populations of 2,323 and 1,892, respectively. Their respective variances are much less: 13.2 percent and -7.7 percent, respectively.

Mayor Eddie Favre said the city convinced Justice Department officials in 1980 and 1990 that correcting a 19 or 20 percent population variance those years would mean diluting the black majority in Ward 3. Letters from the National Association For the Advancement of Colored People asked federal officials to go along with the high variance, so not to disturb the black majority ward.

But with the variance as great as it stands now — almost 32 percent in Ward 3, officials say some adjustments to ward lines are highly likely.

Administrative assistant Buz Olsen said Wednesday there are a couple of feasible ways to adjust the ward lines, keeping a black majority in Ward 3. Federal officials may even go along with a 20 percent variance from the norm, he said, as they have done in the past.

City Council will go over the numbers and ward line maps at their next meeting, officials said.

Trailer hearing reset for April 17

BY ED LEPOMA
Staff Writer

For the second time, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors has to reschedule a public hearing on a proposal to ban trailers in certain areas of the county.

The amendment to the county's Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance has already been approved by the county Planning and Zoning Commission, but opponents appealed and asked supervisors to hold a public hearing.

The original hearing was scheduled March 4th, but later canceled because two supervisors are in Washington, D.C. this week attending the National Association of Counties annual meeting. It was rescheduled for March 20.

But, at Monday's first meeting of March, county attorney Ronnie Artigues Jr. told supervisors the Mississippi Mobile Home Manufacturer's Association, which is the main group opposing the ban, informed him their attorneys can't be present on March 20.

A new hearing is scheduled for 2 p.m. Wednesday April 20, in the Board meeting room on the second floor of the downtown County Courthouse.

The proposal would prohibit any additional mobile homes in areas of the county zoned "R-2, Single-Family Residential."

The ban would apply to Shoreline Park on both sides of state Hwy. 603, Bayside Park off U.S. Hwy. 90, Clermont Harbor, Heron Bay and a small pocket area off Washington and Chapman Streets.

Trailers already on lots in those areas would be allowed to remain, and owners would be allowed to upgrade their trailers.

Pate cautions against fires

BY ED LEPOMA
Staff Writer

Hancock County Fire Marshal Richard Pate cautioned residents, especially in the rural areas, against setting wood fires that can easily get out of control.

"Just because it's rained, it's still not safe to burn," Pate said Tuesday.

A spokesman with the Mississippi Forestry Commission said his crews were called out to assist Hancock County volunteer firemen in putting out two fires on Monday and they were working on another two Tuesday.

Pate said he was not planning to issue a county-wide burn ban, but asked residents to use common sense and to refrain from burning, if possible.

Glen Campbell plays Casino Magic

SPECIAL TO THE ECHO

Musician and singer, Glen Campbell, is in town for one show only on March 8 at 9 p.m. in the Magic Entertainment Complex at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis. Tickets are on sale now and are $14.95, $19.95, and $24.95 at the Casino Magic Box Office or through any Ticketmaster Outlet.

The cloak of legend rests easily on Glen Campbell's shoulders. He is skimming the cream off the top of life these days, and his smile is as quick to emerge as the fast-draw guitar ticks that helped earn him his place in the sun. From his home base in Phoenix, AZ, Glen tours with the same natural aplomb as he pursues his passion for golf. He'll perform in England, Ireland and Australia for a month, and with the same casual pleasure, play a doctor's convention in Aspen. He'll hit the road for an intensive holiday tour or slide into a relaxed summer festival, and wherever he goes, Glen's audiences are instantly entranced by the innate charisma and skill that have only deepened through the years.

Glen will go down in history as one of the best guitarists of his generation. Not only has he inspired many of today's pickers, including Steve Wariner, but his musicianship lives on in the tracks of the most legendary collections of the 20th century. As a recording artist himself, Glen scored classic tunes that are still as viable today as they were when he released them. Reba McEntire recently recorded "By The Time I Get To Phoenix" for her Starting Over CD; Dwight Yoakam remade "Wichita Lineman" for Under the Covers, and newcomer Wade Hayes released his version of "Wichita Lineman" as a single.

Glen's accolades as a musician and singer are as impressive as his talent.

He made history by winning a Grammy in both country and pop categories in 1967: "Gentle On My Mind" snatched the country honors, and "By The Time I Get To Phoenix" won in pop. He owns trophies for Male Vocalist of the Year from both the CMA and the ACM, and took the CMA's top honor as Entertainer of the Year. During his 40 years in show business, Glen has sold 40 million records, racked up 12 gold albums and made 75 trips up the charts, 27 of them into the Top 10. In the 1990s, Glen released a series of gospel albums, which opened up new vistas for the star and garnered a prestigious Dove Award. His tell-all autobiography, Rhinestone Cowboy, shot to the best-seller list when it was released in 1994. In 1999 Glen was honored with the ACM's legendary Pioneer Award.

Horses, dogs show off their athletic skills

SPECIAL TO THE ECHO

The fourth annual Gulf Coast Winter Classics horse show marks the end of its seven-week run with the Amazing Animal Athletes festival March 8-10.

The weekend's major event at the Harrison County Fairgrounds, the $77,700 Michelob Gulf Coast Master's Tournament of Horse Show Jumping, will be taped by Fox Sports Net. About 40 horses from across the nation, as well as Mexico and Canada, will compete in the Olympic-style event.

The festival begins on Friday night with a Celebrity Relay. The relay, which begins at 6:30 p.m., consists of an obstacle course for one team member and a mental test for the other. The winners receive $3,000. The schedule for Saturday and Sunday includes competition, vendors, demonstrations and displays from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. The jumping tournament starts at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday. Fox has not yet announced its broadcast schedule for the event.

Dogs get into the act, too, with the $5,000 Gulf Coast Dog Agility Championship Classic and the Petsmart U.S. Disc Dog Gulf Nationals. The Disc Dog event is Saturday, as is the agility qualifying. Agility finals are Sunday at 12:30 p.m.

Providing music throughout the weekend will be the Sons of Tennessee, "America's Riding and Singing Cowboys." The trio (www.SonsOfTennessee.com) has performed throughout the nation and in Canada, and has six albums to its credit. A seventh, "One National Under God," is in the works.

Admission is $5 for Friday night and $8 each day for Saturday and Sunday. A three-day pass is available for $15. Some of the proceeds will go to the Habitat for Humanity.

The show, which began Jan. 24, has attracted about 1,000 horses competing for prizes worth $770,000. For more information and a complete schedule, visit the Winter Classics Web site at www.gulfcoastclassics.com.

The Gulf Coast Classic Co.'s premiere event, the Gulf Coast Winter Classic, draws about 1,000 hunting and jumping horses and

3,000 "human partners" to the Harrison County Fairgrounds for seven weeks of competition. For more information, call (228) 832-0080.

1992 – Legislature turns eyes toward re-districting planning

Back in Time

COMPILED BY
ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus

TEN YEARS AGO

A legislative redistricting plan accepted Friday by the House of Representatives carves out a district with 13 Hancock County voting precincts.

District 93 also incorporates four complete and two split Harrison County precincts, two Pearl River precincts and one split Stone County voting box.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

February 18, 1982 – A Hancock General Hospital Planning Committee recommends a new hospital be constructed to replace the present facility on Dunbar Avenue in Bay St. Louis. The present 56-bed hospital was built with federal Hill-Burton Act funds in two phases, with initial construction of a 36-bed facility in 1960 and a 36-bed wing added in 1967.

Brother Martin Hernandez, a hospital Board of Trustee member, at a Tuesday night meeting of the group revealed the committee's recommendation.

In addition to the construction proposal Hernandez said the committee recommends the new facility to be a 100-bed county-operated hospital built with funds generated by 'self supporting bonds.'

Members of the committee include Brother Martin, Trustee Perry Gipson, Hancock County Board of Supervisor's President A.A. (Dolph) Kellar, Waveland City Clerk and Alderman Barbara Rappold, Bay St. Louis Councilman James Thriffley, Dr. Andrew K. Martinolich, Hospital Nurse Director Kathy Savage, Rev. Robert Sams of Pearlinton, and County Chamber of Commerce President Louis Breaux.

FORTY YEARS AGO

February 15, 1962 – First shipment of steel for Industrial Electric's new enameling plant here arrived Wednesday in preparation for the start of operation next week in the 60,000 square foot structure build under a BAWI bond issue at a cost of $300,000. E.M. Brignac, president of the company, said all necessary equipment should be moved here by the end of next week.

Author Cecilia Dartez attends Color Your World with Books promotion at Charles B. Murphy

SPECIAL TO THE ECHO
Popular author Cecilia Dartez was the guest storyteller at the Color Your World with Books promotion on Friday, March 1 at 9 a.m. at the Charles B. Murphy Elementary School in Pearlinton.

Color Your World with Books is a joint venture of Charles B. Murphy Elementary School and the Pearlinton Public Library to incorporate art and books into the learning experience. Several months ago Jeanne Brooks, Charles B. Murphy school librarian, and Andrea Kyzar, Pearlinton Public Library branch manager, noticed the need to provide an artistic creative outlet for the students.

For six weeks, students in the kindergarten through fifth grades learned about line, shape, color, form, texture and composition. Along with art instruction from Mississippi Educational Television, the children were educated about artists such as Monet, Matisse and Picasso, along with careers in art through children's literature.

During the program, children worked with "tangrams," basic cut out shapes that can be put together to form recognizable things; learned about texture through the picture books of Ezra Jack Keats and Eric Cade and put together collages; and developed their own "portfolios" for the art show on March 1.

Dartez, who has written such children's books as Jenny Giraffe Discovers Papa Noel, Jenny Giraffe Discovers the French Quarter, Jenny Giraffe's Mardi Gras Ride and The Louisiana Plantation Color Book, holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Tulane University and is a certified elementary school teacher in the state of Louisiana. She is also a certified teacher of the educable mentally challenged and has done graduate work in reading instruction at Tulane University and graduate work in psychology at Princeton University.

As a culmination of the program, parents of the students visited the library to view the exhibit of art portfolios.

Dartez presented the library with Jenny Giraffe, who now joins the Pearlinton Public Library's mascot, Pearl, an alligator cousin of the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library's Louie St. Louis. And Jenny was given her own Hancock County Library System library card.

SSC/OLA &amp; Hawks keep it in the family

Labat vs. Labat in 'friendly' competition on the tennis court

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

As spring begins, so do the outdoor sports such as tennis. The SSC/OLA team locked horns with the cross-county Hancock Hawks in a non-division matchup that also pitted father against son. Myron Labat, the longtime mentor of the SSC/OLA program, squared off against his son Myron Labat, Jr. who is building the Hancock Hawk program.

The elder Labat stated, "It is always nice to see family around the tennis court. This matchup has always been a match of friendly competition. Myron has some returning players at Hancock this season that could make some noise in the district tournament and the post season."

The younger Labat, a former state doubles champion at SSC, felt the same way about the matchup. He commented, "It is always a pleasure and it is always tough going against dad. He has the wisdom of the game. We hope to be more competitive against him in the future as we strive to build this Hawk program."

The SSC/OLA team defeated the Hancock Hawks 4-1 in varsity competition. The one match that Hancock claimed was in girls doubles. Melissa Jassby and Molly Nunez combined to give the Hawks a 6-3, 6-3 win over Sarah Loiacano and Maggie Rafferty. In boys singles, Ernesto Garate defeated Chris White 6-0, 6-0. Rachel Cranford of OLA beat Andrea White 6-3, 6-1.

The SSC boys doubles team of Curry Gamble and Billy Flowers won by default. The mixed doubles team of Kunal Patel and Christine Bratton from SSC/OLA defeated Donald Hains and Jenna Plaisance 6-0, 6-0.

SSC/OLA will find out what they have coming back to the court this spring when they take on perennial state contender Gulfport on March 6. The elder Labat commented on his team, "Our top returning players for SSC are Curry Gamble and Billy Flowers. They are looking very good in boys doubles. Curry Gamble has worked hard in the off-season and is playing as well as anyone. This is Billy Flowers first year at SSC but he has some experience on the court. This early in the season we are trying different combinations to see what consistency we can obtain by playoff time."

The younger Labat

talked about his returning players, "We have Chris White returning in boys singles. He has a very good chance of performing well in the district and possibly making it to the state tournament. He has worked hard in the off-season and he is looking forward to the season. Molly Nunez is an eighth grader this year. She is the returning district champion in girls doubles. We are experimenting with her at girls doubles, as well. We are expecting big things from her this season. Melissa Jassby is a returning eighth grader. She also provides some experience for us on the court as we try her in different areas. Overall, we are not quite as strong as last season. However, we have a few bright spots."

This was the first match of the season for both schools - last week's matches had to be called off due to inclement weather.

Kingfish fight a sell-out at Magic

SPECIAL TO THE ECHO

Boxing promoter, Anna Beth Goodman, who is also the wife of actor, John Goodman, was pleased with the sellout crowd at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis Friday night. It was her first Mississippi fight card, and most likely will not be her last.

The six bout card featured evenly matched bouts and was crowd-pleasing entertainment to the nearly 2,000 that ventured out in the pouring rain to watch live boxing. The main event, Tipton Walker of Benton Harbor, Michigan, battled Andrew Greeley of Monroe, Louisiana for a title belt. Walker won the Mid South Cruiserweight Championship on a controversial split decision.

Of the six-bout card, other notable matches included a 6-round square off between Nicholas Cook (9-0-0 4KO's) of LaPorte, IN and Dennis Matthews (8-13-4 5 KO's) of Houston, TX. The match was unanimously scored 60-54 and gave the crowd a real show. Additionally, the crowds cheered when three matches ended in knock-outs.

Goodman's brother, Preston "Bogalusa

Boogieman" Hartzog battled Heavyweight Tony "TNT" Adams of Ocean Springs. Adams is a former Mississippi Golden Glove Champ, but proved to be no match for Hartzog.

Hartzog immediately brought Adams to his knees in the first round. The fight was stopped at 2:30 in the first round.

Local celebrities attending the fight included Bogalusa's Mayor, Mac McGehee, and John Goodman, who now calls New Orleans home.

Lady Cats fall in b-ball tourney

ECHO STAFF REPORT

Pearl River Community College's Lady Wildcats saw their 2002 season draw to a close Monday, falling to the Itawamba Lady Indians in first-round women's action of the 2002 Region XXIII Tournament here in A.E. Wood Coliseum on the Mississippi College campus.

Coach Ed Walley's Lady 'Cats wrapped up their season at 15-9 overall, while Itawamba improved to 16-8. The Lady Indians will take on MACJC state champion Copiah-Lincoln at 6 p.m. Wednesday after the nationally-ranked Lady Wolves defeated Northwest Mississippi 73-68 Monday to advance to the semi-finals.

"Our girls played their hearts out up at state and at regionals. I couldn't have asked any more from them," said Walley.

"We were banged up and bruised and had a couple or three playing with flu-like symptoms. They're a gritty bunch."

Two key PRCC starters forward Kristie McKinley of Hattiesburg High and guard Jessica Welborn of Kenner, La. suffered severe ankle sprains in the Itawamba victory at state.

Walley said McKinley played at about 70 percent in the finale, while Welborn was at about 50 percent.

Itawamba led by as many as eight points two times in the first half, but PRCC ended the half with a 12-5 run to cut ICC's lead to 30-29 at the intermission.

In the second half, the score was deadlocked three times and the lead exchanged hands six times. McKinley - sprained ankle and all - paced PRCC with 14 points, including an eight-of-10 effort at the foul line, while Audosha Kelly of Savannah, Ga., and Dee Flennory of North Forrest added 11 each.

Gray scored seven (two treys), Welborn, Jancsi Newsome of Petal, and Kayla Wilson of North Forrest, four each; and LaShunda McGee of North Forrest, Danielle Smith of Richton, and Liz Palmer of Oak Grove, two a piece.

"These girls came a long, long way since we began fall practices," said Walley. "They did what they were told in practice and in games. They are a bunch of hard workers and were a pleasure to teach and coach."

The women's championship game is set for 6 p.m. today, followed by the men's at 8 p.m.

The women's and men's Region XXIII champions earn berths in the NJCAA National Tournament set for next week.

The men's national championship will be held in Hutchinson, Kan.; while the women's will be held in Tyler, Tex.
